

Vocal Characteristics:

I have a unique, warm voice that people enjoy listening to. It naturally conveys friendly authority, but I have no problem hitting “creepy” when necessary.

Bio

While the rest of the world indulged in sea shanties and sourdough bread at the beginning of the pandemic in 2020, Dr. Sean Cordry discovered that he had a latent talent for storytelling and acting, as he fell in love with narrating audiobooks. After finding ACX.com and landing several books without any formal training, he decided it was time to get serious and develop his skills with some world-class coaching. At this point he is branching out into publishers beyond ACX.

With one foot still in the collegiate physics classroom, he stays busy, working out both his left- and right-brains – creative meets analytical. He lives in East TN, in Southern Appalachia with his wife of 30+ years. They also own a martial arts school and have trained over one hundred blackbelts.
